Real estate is about more than just buying or selling a house. It's about the relationships we create with our community and the place we call home. It's also a significant financial decision, and one that affects our families and lifestyles.

Eeva Turzian understands this better than anyone, and her real estate business is built upon her strong, caring relationships with clients and her dedication to work hard on their behalf to achieve their goals. Clients appreciate Eeva's honest, straightforward approach, and her fun attitude. Buying or selling a home should be an exciting process, not a stressful one, and Eeva is passionate about giving her clients the confidence and knowledge they need to make the right decisions.

Eeva is consistently ranked among the top five agents in the Sun Valley Board of Realtors, and in 2016 she sold over $23,000,000 of local real estate. Her expertise spans across all sectors of the market, including luxury estate homes, new developments, condo projects, and a variety of unique residential and commercial properties. With her extensive market knowledge, Eeva is currently recognized as one of the leaders within the local real estate industry and will continue to be a driving force for years to come. As an associate broker at the leading agency in the area, Sun Valley Sotheby's International Realty, Eeva has the connections and resources it takes to deliver an exceptional experience to each of her clients.

Eeva's love for the local community and mountain lifestyle runs deep, and her pursuits outside the office include a multitude of outdoor activities and social events. She moved to Sun Valley after growing up in Michigan and then graduating from the Whittemore School of Business at the University of New Hampshire, where she was an All-American Division I competitive ski racer. She volunteers her time with local organizations such as The Advocates and the Zions Bank Advisory Board. Eeva and her husband Bryce are enjoying their latest adventure as parents with their two young children, Estelle and Will.
