Licensed Real Estate Assistant

Taking the leap of faith to buy or sell a home is not always an easy decision, and it's one that affects our lifestyle, family, and many other factors. But, with the right professionals by your side, any intimidation or apprehension can be transformed into a process that's exciting and rewarding.

Tori Hartman is an integral part of Eeva Turzian's real estate team, and she brings her expertise to the table as a full-time licensed assistant. She helps to ensure that each and every client has the best possible experience, and that they have all the knowledge and support they need to make educated decisions in the real estate world. She knows why homeowners in Sun Valley are so lucky to live here, and her love for the mountain lifestyle and local community is transparent.

With a deep background in marketing and a Journalism degree from the University of Washington in Seattle, Tori's writing and communication skills are on point. She manages several factors of the real estate business with Eeva, from advertising and marketing to transaction coordination and client relations. She works alongside professional photographers to ensure each listing is looking it's best, and presents every home online by utilizing today's top marketing platforms. Her attention to detail, dedication, creative skillset, and thoughtful demeanor are all assets that contribute to the success of the team and each of their clients. She brings a fresh perspective to connect with clients and maintain a strong level of communication throughout the entire buying and selling process.

In her free time, Tori enjoys taking advantage of all that the mountain lifestyle in Sun Valley has to offer; you can find her hiking with her black lab Benny, skiing, camping, biking, and spending time with friends and family. She is actively involved with the community through several volunteer opportunities, including The Advocates and Girls on the Run.
